Eduardo:

You have requested a proposal from KerBob Interactive Web Solutions, LLC to make content updates and style changes to your existing website, micstura.com. This quote reflects doing that work.

This document outlines the complete scope of the work you requested, including objectives, procedures, identification of responsibilities, and fees.

This document represents an agreement and legally binding contract, upon signing, between KerBob Interactive Web Solutions, LLC ("The Company", "The Contractor") and the aforementioned client ("The Client", "The Customer"). The content of this document is in reference to the Client's website("The Site", "The Website") and the services ("The Services") outlined below. This agreement is to be considered a contract of work for the production of a product publically referred to as a "Website" or "Web-based Application". This agreement IS NOT for, and does not involve any work required in producing a product publicly defined using the terms "Mobile App." or "Mobile Application" or "Native App." or "Native Application".

OBJECTIVE OF WORK

1. Company is not responsible for integration of work into current Craft CMS architecture.
2. Work shall mirror the design provided at <https://craft3-7gv9.frb.io/about>
3. About Page. Create for the Customer a single page, using industry best practices HTML, JavaScript, and CSS entitled 'About Us'. The page will have multiple sections, as outlined below:
 - a. About Section
Company to duplicate content, layout, and styling of base page per design provided at link above.

- b. Page will follow a 'Horizontal Scrolling' layout, following the example provided at <http://work.alesnesetiril.com/flip/4/>. The supplied design at the first link above contains 7 content 'blocks'. Company will provide a page layout as shown below, with 'blocks' 3, 4, and 5 appearing in the 'Horizontal Scroll', following the example the link above:

 - 3 4 5
 - 6 case studies
 - 7
 - c. The Clients section will contain 40 Customer supplied 'case studies'. These will appear in block 6 above. Block 6 will initially display 8 'case study' cards, and upon user command or click on "expand more" we display all 40 logo/cards on same page.
 - d. Clicking the 'Case Study' link on each card will open a templated page in same browser tab, containing the pre-loaded content for that case study. It will display its own functionality and behaviors as well.
 4. Case Study template page. As mentioned above, clicking on a 'case study' link will redirect to a new page in the same browser tab, displaying the case study content for the case study that was clicked on. This page will be a template, which will receive its data from an object pre-loaded in local browser storage. At load time, an array of JSON objects containing the data for each case study will be downloaded and stored in local browser storage, for retrieval at runtime, based on which one was clicked.
 5. Dynamic CSS Effects. The main 'About Us' page, and the templated 'Case Study' pages will contain the following Customer specified dynamic styling:
 - a. 'Motion' loading effect on all images. Examples of this behavior include 'swipe' and 'sweep' effects as images are being displayed on pages.
 - b. On mouver 'puff' effect on all case study cards and other active link graphics and images.
 - c. Other dynamic page loading behavior contained in this sample: <https://basicagency.com/case-studies>.
 6. Pages will be responsive and adjust nicely across all devices and screen widths.

SCOPE OF SERVICES

1. ☐ (X appears if this applies) Re-Branding of the Client's company image, including a new logo and color scheme.
2. ☐ (X appears if this applies) The Company agrees to provide for The Client an easy to use and aesthetically pleasing Website design for The Client.
3. ☐ (X appears if this applies) Company will implement the aforementioned Site structure, using current standard best web development practices, into computer program code.
4. ☐ (X appears if this applies) Company will provide migration and relocation of any existing Website and/or Website code from any existing standard web server to the KerBob web hosting servers.

5. ☐ (X appears if this applies) Company will host and maintain the Site as further set forth below. In order to perform the Services, The Company will require access and write permission from The Customer. Customer hereby authorizes Company to access the Sites and grants Company "write permission" to access and write to all Site directories and /or programs which need to be accessed to perform the Services. In performing the Services.
6. The Company is, and will perform the Services as, an independent contractor for The Customer.
